

Cornell University Reported Incidents of Harassment Summary Report, January 1999

The following incidents of harassment were reported Fall 1998. These incidents are being investigated by the appropriate parties. The University is committed to pursuing these incidents to the best of its ability. Those found responsible will be processed through the appropriate disciplinary channel. Incidents related to campus transportation and the residence hall service center have been resolved through appropriate supervisory action and education.

Type of Harassment:	Number of:	Details of Incidences:
Verbal Harassment	13	Between October 5, 1998 and November 22, 1998, Cornell students reported 13 incidents of verbal harassment had taken place. The nature of the incidents included student to student confrontations about music, incidents of students being insulted and the shouting of epithets outside a residence hall.
Written Harassment	4	Between April 1998 and November 6, 1998 Cornell students reported 4 incidents of written harassment. The nature of these incidents included threatening e-mail, derogatory drawings, and indecent posters.
Physical Intimidation	5	Between October 17, 1998 and November 21, 1998 Cornell students reported perceived acts of intimidation by acts such as being followed by a vehicle, having the occupants of a vehicle shout epithets and unfamiliar men approaching and surrounding women, thus impeding their free movement.
Property Damage	4	Between November 2, 1998 and November 20, 1998 Cornell students reported 4 incidents of property damage had taken place. The nature of the incidents included removing personal property, personal areas being covered by graffiti, and an incident of suspicious fire.
Threatening Environment	4	Between November 8, 1998 and December 6, 1998 students reported 5 incidents perceived to be threatening to their environment. The nature of the incidents included invading private quarters; display of racist posters, shining light through residence hall room windows, and outdoor shouting of epithets.
Refused Services	2	Between August 29, 1998 and December 18, 1998 students reported services having been denied to them in situations such as bus and taxi transportation and being accommodated at residence hall service center.